Faculty Play 20Questions WithParents

Carmel High School Principal Warren Edwards had most of the floor at last night's P.T.A. meeting of faculty members with parents of ninth grade students at the high school.

It was the first of what Edwards hopes will be a series of discussions sponsored by the P.T.-A. to discover how parents may best help the faculty, and to increase parents' understanding of the general policies adhered to by the school administration and faculty and the way in which these decisions are reached.

Earlier this week, Edwards was given a list of questions compiled by P.T.A. education chairman Mrs. Joseph Giarratana from a telephone survey of parents. Following are some of the queries received by Edwards, and the gist of his answers, as he reported them to the Pine Cone.

Would it bring girls more to one level if they had a uniform dress? This, admitted Edwards, is a really controversial question and one he hated to answer. Speaking from his own experience, Edwards said the uniform idea just didn't seem to work out in practice; he taught for three years at a school where uniforms were required, but after two semesters the policy was dropped — largely because the school didn't feel it was in a position to police students on matters of dress. "Anyway," he said, "girls are pretty much in uniform dress —sweaters and skirts—and while there are bound to be differences in style and quality, that's life, isn't it?" Edwards said that if parents wanted uniforms prescribed, the school would comply; but a far better solution, he felt, would

Senior Class Breaks With Tradition In This Year's Play

The senior class at Carmel High School will break with tradition next month, when for the first time in the school's history the senior play will be given on campus rather than in Sunset Auditorium.

The school has long recognized the difficulties of staging the senior play at Sunset—problems of transportation, organization, and above all, rehearsing. "The kids," says a high school spokesman, "hated to have to keep throwing people out during rehearsals, but with so many evening activities going on at Sunset, conflicts in schedules were almost unavoidable."

While the high school cafetorium, where this year's play will be given, is considerably smaller than Sunset, the play will have two performances rather than just a one-night stand, as formerly. The play next month will be Tish, a comedy-drama by Alice Chadwicke; dates for the show are Friday and Saturday, November 19 and 20.

Another innovation this year is that the play will be cast from Mrs. Mariquita Brey's sixth period dramatics class. Rehearsals may thus be conducted during class and continued right after school, sixth period being the last for the day.

BY DICK COLEMAN

The amazing vitality of youth plus about 2,000 highly educational hours have produced one of the most immaculate "T-buckets" (street roadsters) ever seen hereabouts.

One would expect the author of such a true jewel to be a garage owner or perhaps a well-heeled college boy with a machine shop at his disposal—but not so the creator of Hildie's Bucket.

Mark Hilderbrand, a Carmel High junior, used patience and uncompromising perfection in place of a machine shop. Time and his weekly allowance provided the financial backing that would take a $600 cash outlay to duplicate.

The basic components of Hildie's Bucket derive from a Model A owned originally by Mark's grandfather, then his mother, and finally himself; it's come a long way from Willow Run, and hasn't stopped yet. By the time Mark is finished, his car will be worth more than it cost when his grandfather proudly drove it out of the Ford garage at Ocean and San Carlos—not to mention the wealth of knowledge the project has provided.

Physics, math and chemistry all figure into building your own car. Like mountain climbing, building a car also teaches a lesson in life; both the builder and the climber know the feeling of a job well done. Mark Hilderbrand has been over two years on his "climb", and he's just reaching the top. Patience, perfection and quality have done the job.

Sec. Of Interior Is Art Judge On Visit To Carmel

When a member of the presidential cabinet pays a visit anywhere, be it ever so informal, he is usually obliged to face a multitude of politicians, press representatives, favor-seekers, and so on. But it seems happily appropriate that when Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay stopped over in Carmel last weekend, the only people he met (apart from his hosts), were three cartoonists and a painter—and by his own choice.

Mr. McKay's hosts were his long-time friends Col. and Mrs. Thomas E. May, who live up on Stewart Place. The colonel and McKay have known each other since both were in their early teens: they grew up together in Portland, were fraternity brothers in college, and served in the same unit during the first World War. They've remained fast friends ever since, and the secretary, despite his busy schedule in Washington, has found time for several brief visits here, the last of which was last year at about this time.

Arrangements for last weekend's visit were made by phone from Washington several weeks ago, before the secretary embarked on a rigorous speaking tour on the Pacific Coast. He arrived here Saturday evening by chartered plane, having just completed two speaking engagements in Eureka, and was promptly whisked off by the Mays for 48 hours of rest and relaxation. Apart from a short sightseeing drive around Carmel, the Mays and their guest stuck pretty close to home; golf isn't Mr. McKay's dish, although he confessed to wishing he'd had his horse here for a ride Sunday morning. (Riding is the secretary's chief recreation in Washington, and he keeps his own mount stabled there.)

The weekend offered one unexpected diversion for Mr. McKay. Colonel May had been commissioned to judge a contest of cartoons drawn by soldiers stationed on the island of Okinawa, and had enlist-

Graves Is Speaker For Demo Dinner At Fair Grounds

The only campaign appearance of Richard Graves, Democratic candidate for governor, in this area will be Monday night when he will be speaker at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner.

The event will be the largest to be staged this year by Peninsula Democrats and will be held at the Monterey County Fair grounds. A ham dinner will be served with desserts to be donated by Democratic women.

The last two Jefferson - Jackson Day dinners have drawn an attendance of over more than 500 and because of the campaign year a larger turnout is expected for the Monday event.

George Outland, a familiar personality in this area, will serve as master of ceremonies. Outland is a former congressman from this district. Mrs. E. A. H. Watson, of Carmel, is general chairman, and George Savo, also of Carmel, is in charge of the dinner. Tickets are $2.00. Those desiring transportation may call 7-4219.

Full Time Rec. Director Before Trustees Tonight

Tonight at 7:15 o'clock when the school board holds its October meeting at the high school it will be asked to approve hiring a full-time recreation director at a salary somewhere between $5000 and $6000. This director is to set up and run a year around recreation program and co-ordinate the recreational activities of adults as well as the youth of the community.

It is the same request that has come before the school board at least once every year since 1949 when a state recreational expert made a survey of Carmel, recommended such a director and produced a tailor-made play program that would take care of Carmel's every leisure hour from the cradle to the grave.

To date the director and plan have been turned down because of lively opposition from citizens who do not want a recreational director supervising the youth center and using it as a "facility" in an over-all recreation program, putting it to morning and afternoon use by adult organizations. Others do not like to see the Forest Theatre further converted into a "facility" (it has already been made to serve as a day-camp) when there is a full-time need for it as a theater.

Nevertheless, tonight there is a strong probability that the board will approve the director and the plan, for the following reasons:

For the first time the year-around program has the official approval of the Carmel Recreation Commission. Other years the members of the commission have differed and the commission has not gone on record approving or disapproving.

For the first time the school district has levied the five cent recreation tax and the proponents of a year around program say more of the tax revenue should be spent on recreation.

There will be need to hire a director for the summer program next year since George Mosolf will not be available, and there is need now for an assistant to the high school athletic coach and for someone to help with the after-school sports at Sunset.

Mosolf, in his report to the Recreation Commission at its last meeting, said that he intends to take a trip to Washington next summer. His "suggestions for

Employees In No Way Affected By Monterey County Bank Merger

Stockholders in the Monterey County Trust & Savings Bank will be sent letters by the bank's directors next Thursday recommending their acceptance of an offer for the bank by the American Trust Company of San Francisco.

American Trust was high bidder for the bank over Anglo National Bank, the San Francisco Bank and Transamerica Corp., offering three and three-quarters shares of its own stock for each share of Monterey County Trust & Savings. There are 60,000 shares of Monterey Trust stock outstanding, which would be exchanged for 225,000 shares of American Trust if, as expected, the offer is accepted. Based on the current American Trust dividend rate, stockholders should receive dividends of $5.25 per year on their new stock as compared to the $3.10 annual payment previously received.

J. E. Abernethy, manager of the Carmel branch of the Monterey County Bank, states that the merger would in no way involve a change of personnel in any of the bank's various branches. In the letter to stockholders, the bank's president, A. P. Holm, writes: "In the opinion of your board of directors, the president and other officers, the proposed terms of merger are eminently fair to the stockholders and to our employees."

Directors of the bank have set November 17 as the date of the stockholders' meeting to vote on the American Trust offer. Two-thirds of the shares must be voted favorably for the merger to go through.

Korea Bank Gov. On World Tour Stops Here To Visit Son

Visiting in Carmel over the weekend was Mr. Y. T. Kim, governor of the Bank of Korea. Mr. Kim, internationally known in the word of banking and finance, arrived here Saturday fresh from a world tour which had taken him to Rome, Paris, London, Calcutta, Geneva, and finally Washington, D.C., where he participated in an international monetary conference.

Chief reason for Mr. Kim's visit in Carmel was his son, Yer Su Kim, who has attended school on the Peninsula for the past year and a half. Now a senior at Monterey Union High School, Yer Su ("Jimmy" to his friends) makes his home in Carmel Highlands with Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Inwood. Jimmy plans to remain on the Peninsula until his graduation

COAST HIGH NO MATCH FOR PADRE VARSITY

Carmel High's varsity enjoyed the beautiful scenery going down Highway 1 to Cambria Pines last Saturday, appreciated playing on one of the finest football turfs in the United States, and thoroughly whacked a badly out-manned Coast High grid squad. At the outset of the game it was apparent that the fast-improving Padres packed too much power for the green Broncos as West Whittaker zipped 60 yards on a quick hit and Ted Ledbetter intercepted the host's first pass and ran it back for six. Paul Fratessa, kicking from Don Rowe's steady placement, made both conversions good and the Padres were in front, 14 to 0, with less than three minutes gone. On the next running play tried by Carmel, Mike Mosolf broke off right tackle on a keeper play and threw a backward pass to Don Rowe for a touchdown play which ate up 70 yards.

Going into their shell after the quick 21-point outburst, the Carmel lads brushed up on their kicking game for the rest of the game, shunning all running plays and giving Fratessa plenty of practice on field goals. Paul toed through a pair of three-pointers in twelve attempts which was practically on a par with the batting average of the Cleveland Indians against the Giants in the World Series. That some of the field goal attempts were over 50-yards caused Paul no concern as the cool senior swung his leg with reckless abandon.

Following the game, the very congenial Coast High student body spread a bountiful lunch for the Carmel team and sent the Padres on their way to Carmel singing the praises of the friendly hospitality showed by the Bronco school.

CARMEL GRIDDERS TO OPEN LEAGUE PLAY AT HOLLISTER

With three practice games under their belts, two wins and one loss, the Carmel High varsity football squad goes after bigger game tonight, clashing with the mighty Hollister Haybalers in an 8:00 o'clock tussle at Hollister. Always a dominant factor in CCAL grid action, the 'Balers are loaded with their usual galaxy of swift halfbacks and have a big rugged line to spring the fleet ball-carriers. Hollister has gone to the post three times this year, winning from the Salinas juior-varsity and dropping close decisions to Dos Palos and Los Banos. Football experts concede that Hollister is the only B-division club which has a chance of beating the terrifying power of Herb Schmalenberger's Breakers of Pacific Grove this season.

Carmel's well-balanced squad has shown steady improvement since an inauspicious debut in the CCAL Jamboree and the enthusiastic Carmel lads feel they have a good chance to upset the favored Haybalers. The Padres started to jell in the Atascadero game as they outplayed the Greyhounds to win a 14-7 decision and were ready to play a sound game of football when they encountered a hapless Coast High team last Saturday. Coast offered little resistance for the Padres and the game proved nothing as to Carmel's stage of development. However, the ball handling is much better, tackling has improved to a point where it is the best in several years, and the players have a desire to play the game.

The Red & Gray will start an offensive unit of George Wightman and John Farrell, ends, David Castagna and Bob Michela, tackles, Millard Martin and Greg Danelz, guards, John Thompson, center, Mike Mosolf, quarterback, Don Rowe and West Whittaker, halfbacks, and Clyde Klaumann, fullback. Captain Jon Menand will lead a defensive unit of Dick Jennings, his running mate at end, Merle Pitman and Pat Erwin, tackles, Jon Chase and Gene Gawain, guards, Dick Odgen and Ted Ledbetter, linebackers, Bill McCormack and Bob Alvarez, halfbacks, and Billy Powell, safety.

In a 6 o'clock preliminary game, the Carmel and Hollister junior varsities will square off in a game which will be a revenge affair for the Hayseeds. Last year, the little Padres rubbed the Hollister lights, 32 to 6, and the lads from the farm country will be out to even the score tonight. Carmel's JV squad has shown flashes of grid prowess in their three losing efforts against San Lorenzo, Atascadero, and the Monterey lightweights but haven't been able to put a complete game together. Although dropping a 25-6 decision to the swift Monterey Babes, the little Padres came with a rush in the later stages of the game and were threatening to score again as time ran out. Captain Tony Weaver who turned in a terrific game against Monterey will lead a starting unit of Dave Gray, Pat Grimshaw, Joe Mason, Harry Baxter, Syd Trevvett, Brian Leidig, Dick Holt, Jim Konrad, Gary Nielsen, and John Zellhoefer against the Hayseeds.

CLEAT MARKS

Pacific Grove's win streak of 12 straight was snapped last Friday night as the hard-hitting Arroyo Grande team smashed to a 13-6 win over the B league favorites. Peninsula fans knew that Arroyo Grande was a real football team after watching them against the Monterey varsity the week before. Although dumped by Monterey, 28 to 0, the visitors from San Luis Obispo way gave the Toreadores all they wanted before being scuttled by fumbilitis. Coach Schmalanberger's PG lads should get back on the winning trail again tonight when they host the Gonzales Spartans in a B league opener . . .

Coach Jim Tidwell's MPC Lobos found Coalinga an easy mark last Saturday night, romping to a 33-6 decision over the valley junior college. Former Monterey Serra star, Tom Nelson, was a standout for the Lobos snaring two touchdown passes and playing a solid game from the right flank spot. Carmel's Bob Updike tried his weak knee on a few plays but the popular ex-Padre was running on a flat wheel. Was good to see Jim O'Dell, former Carmel High end, operating at a wing spot against Coalinga. Lanky Jim accepted a few passes and deported himself like a real college football player.

. . . Few football fans are familiar with the gridiron at Cambria Pines, but Carmel High players will attest to the fact that the turf there is tops in this area. Smooth as a billiard table, close-cropped, and green enough to be artificial, the Cambria field reminds one of the Cypress Point golf greens. The school has acres and acres of practice turf so the playing field is used only during games . . . Fort Ord takes on another breather Sunday afternoon when the Eagle Rock Athletic Club invades the Ord stadium. Too bad the good Warrior eleven can't find some competition to extend them. Playing out-of-shape semi-pro clubs can do little to improve their grid play. Already loaded with talent, the Warriors greeted another good one when California's Don Robison reported for action at the Fort. Don is a complete football player and will add to the Warrior luster.

CARMELITES SEE SOME SPEED AT MADERA DRAG CHAMPIONSHIP

A quartet of enthusiasts from the Carmel Continentals were on hand last weekend for the championship drag races at Madera to witness what knowing hot-rodders agreed was a fabulous, if not to say incredible performance.

Most amazing performance was turned in by the Pomona Choppers Chrysler-powered dragster, which screeched to halt from better than 150 mph. Despite a broken second gear which necessitated doing the standing quarter-mile in high gear, the potent dragster registered an official time of 141 for the championship drag. However, the Choppers were ultimately eliminated by the world-famous Bean Bandit of San Diego at 138 mph. on a better elapsed time.

Local boys who made the Madera trip were Continentals' president Mike Stanton, Dean Phillips, Richard Coleman and Leo Forester.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

According to an article in Time of August 23, Secretary of the Interior McKay "believes in conservation, not decomposition". Farther on, he is quoted as saying: "Natural resources are not worth a thing unless you put work into them". This is so obviously a slam at the national park concept that I am tempted to comment on it.

My first remark is that the National Park Service is in Secretary McKay's Department and it is therefore very important that he should be sympathetic toward its activities and should understand the philosophy behind the national park movement in this country. His chief, Persident Eisenhower, said in his State of the Union Message in January: "We shall continue to protect and improve our national forests, parks, monuments, and other natural and historic sites . . ." In order to carry out this policy a sympathetic understanding is necessary.

The statement that Secretary McKay "believes in conservation, not decomposition" refers to the fact that the forests in the national parks are not under present policy allowed to be harvested for their timber crop. When trees die in a state of nature, they decompose gradually, thus building up the humus content of the soil. Secretary McKay apparently doesn't approve of this natural process, and the logical extension of his ideas would be to convert the national parks into national forests, thus allowing commercial use of their tree crop.

If we look next at the Secretary's dictum that "natural resources are not worth a thing unless you put work into them", we must first ask what kind of work he is talking about. Cutting the forests, shooting the wild animals, digging out the minerals, damming the streams, grazing domestic stock in the meadows, are the most evident kinds of "work" in these areas. Does he really think, then, that the highest use of the national parks is in "working" these natural resources in this way?

I fear that he has little appreciation of the main purpose of the national park system. In this one place in the whole United States the natural scene is being preserved in so far as possible unimpaired in its original condition. The wise use of this particular natural resource is the use that stimulates appreciation of wilderness beauty. It may be labelled recreational, or inspirational, or spiritual. The semantics involved are unimportant. The main point is that if any work is put into the development of this resource, it should be work of a mental nature, the kind that leads to a realization that "making a living" should not occupy one hundred percent of our time, but that there is an important place in both our individual and national economy for the higher enjoyment that the primeval scenic grandeur of the national parks can supply.

William P. Hill

William Henry Pawley Hill, a Peninsula resident for over 50 years and patriarch of Hill's Corners here, died Monday night of a stroke, following a short illness. He was 83.

Born August 25, 1871, in San Francisco, Mr. Hill was one of the pioneers in the electrical industry in the Salinas-Watsonville area. In the early 1900's he moved to Pacific Grove, where he became general manager of the Monterey Power and Light Company.

After a few years' sojourn in the Pacific Northwest, he and the late Mrs. Hill returned to the Peninsula, and in 1921 built what is now Hill's Corners at San Carlos and Eighth, his home ever since. He was the first representative for PG&E in Carmel, and also maintained an electrical contracting business for a time. In addition, he served for several years as city building inspector.

Even after his retirement from business, Mr. Hill continued his active interest in civic affairs, as well as his enthusiasm for local sports and musical events.

He leaves a son, Paul K. Hill, and a daughter, Mrs. James Cooke, both of Carmel. Also living here are two grandchildren, Bill Hill and Jennie Keith Hill.

Private funeral services were held Wednesday.

Yasuko Delights Friends With Koto At Farewell Party

A farewell party that grew to the proportions of a full-scale concert took place last Thursday evening at the Carmel Art Gallery.

The party's raison d'etre, and its chief entertainer as well, was Miss Yasuko Nakashima, who left for her home in Tokyo early this week after a year and a half on the Peninsula. During that time, Yasuko has attended and graduated from Monterey Peninsula College and made her home in Carmel with Jack and Linford Donovan. The Donovans hastily arranged the party when they learned that Yasuko, who had been visiting for a fortnight in New York, would be here for just a few more days before embarking for the Orient, and for the many who had known Yasuko and enjoyed her unique artistry, it proved to be a memorable occasion.

Yasuko, whose favorite musical medium is the Koto (an ancient Japanese stringed instrument), is the daughter of the Japanese musician and teacher, Utashito Nakashima, at whose academy, the Seiha Music School, Yasuko will teach on her return home. At one time, Dr. Nakashima conducted music schools in Manchuria as well as throughout Japan, and even maintained a branch in Vancouver, B. C.

Each of Dr. Nakashima's pupils, on graduation, takes a part of the master's name and adds it to his own, proudly signifying that he is a "musical relation" of Dr. Nakashima. Jack Donovan has a scroll sent to him recently by Dr. Nakashima; over 30 feet in length, the scroll bears the names of all the "master teachers" who have studied with Dr. Nakashima up to the last year.

Yasuko and Dr. Nakashima came to this country two years ago as their country's delegates to the Music Olympiad in New York. Conceived as an international music festival similar in organization to the sports Olympics, the Olympaid was a cultural success though financial difficulties precluded its continuance. But it did serve to bring the talents of Yasuko and her father before Arturo Toscanini, who praised their playing and gave Yasuko a letter to assist her in making contacts here.

Yasuko and her father presented several concerts in the east following the Olympiad, and Yasuko decided to remain in this country to study the theory of Western music. They came to the Peninsula on the suggestion of one of Dr. Nakashima's former pupils, Mrs. Thomas Tanimoto, whose husband teaches here at the Army Language School.

Dr. Nakashima returned to Tokyo soon after Yasuko was settled in her studies at Monterey College and with the Donovans at their home here. Before he left, he and Yasuko gave a concert at the San Francisco Museum of Art and another in Southern California. Yasuko herself has given numerous solo recitals throughout the state.

For her farewell concert last week, Yasuko performed compositions which spanned over three centuries of Japanese music. There were many in her predominantly Western audience who found themselves surprised at the lilting, lyric nature of the songs, finding in them little of the harsh pentatonic dissonance generally associated with Japanese music. Yasuko herself, attired in a ceremonial kimono and obi of a burnished gold color, made a charming picture as she bent over her Koto, against a background of flowers arranged in the Japanese style by Mrs. Tom Tanimoto. The Koto itself, which measures nearly seven feet in length, rests on the floor and looks, according to Mr. Donovan, not unlike an ironing board. The instrument's strings—there are 13 of them—are all made of silk, and each is supported with an independent bridge.

Yasuko embarked for home from San Francisco on Monday, laden with gifts presented her by her friends here. She plans to instruct other teachers in the playing of the koto, which she has studied since she was five years old. In the meantime, the Donovans are hoping for a continuance of a correspondence which began when Dr. Nakashima returned to Japan 18 months ago: he writes them, very formally but very charmingly, in Japanese, which is translated for the Donovans by Tom Tanimoto. The Donovans write Dr. Nakashima in English, which their Japanese friend must also have translated for him. "Letters like that," says Jack Donovan, "give time for a little reflection."

Famous Churches Contribute Stones To Carmel Church

Stones from noted churches all over the world have been received by the Carmel Presbyterian Church in preparation for the construction of its new church building.

Among the churches represented in the stones, which will be incorporated into the new church's cornerstone, are the National Presbyterian Church of Washington, D.C. (President Eisenhower's church); Lincoln's Church in Springfield, Illinois; Princeton Theological semipary; Otterburg Cathedral in Germany, built in the 12th century; Nierstein Church in Germany, dating from Charlemagne's time. The church also hopes to secure stones from Wesminster Abbey, John Knox's church in Edinburgh, Calvin's church in Geneva, Luther's church in Wittenburg and Notre Dame in Paris.

Carmel Toastmasters Laud American Press

Tribute was paid to the American press Monday night by the Carmel Toastmasters Club meeting at Carmel High School library. President Joseph Giarratana presided.

Toastmaster Fred Diefendorf, himself a former San Francisco newspaper man, introduced as speakers the following: Stanley Ewig who spoke on The Weekly Press and its Importance in the Life of Smaller Communities; Cmdr. Howell Armor on The Vital Role of Daily Newspapers in American Life; Everett May on The Importance of Newspaper Advertising on the American Scene; Richard Catlin paid tribute to the community service performed by the press. Jim Foster was General Critic.

Invited guests at the Carmel Toastmasters Press Night included Edward Kennedy, Ted Durein, Jimmy Costello, Monterey Peninsula Herald; Cliff and Wilma Cook, Carmel Pine Cone; Jack Hennessey and Joe Schoeninger, Carmel Valley News; and George Bush and Thorne Hall, Carmel Spectator.

Enthusiastic Turnout For First Local Opera

By Edward C. Hopkins

The eternal freshness and beauty of Mozart's music was exemplified in no uncertain manner last Saturday night when the Musical Art Club sponsored Dr. Harvey Marshall's presentation of Cosi fan Tutte at Sunset Auditorium.

The performance was long, over two and a half hours, but there was not a dull moment in the score, which was exceptionally well handled by four well-seasoned singers and two promising students in an effective reading of the difficult opera. The entire work received a concert rendition, frequent applause being spontaneous in appreciation of the good work of the artists in both solo and ensemble numbers.

Two Steinways under the hands of Mary Whitmer and Wade Parks substituted for the harpsichord and orchestral support originally provided, the blending of tone and sympathetic accompaniments adequately completing the effect of the whole. Dr. Harvey Marshall of the Monterey College conducted with spirited tempo and precise rhythm at all times. The preparation and direction of this unique and important opus was a labor of many works during the summer. It is to be noted that no major operatic offering has ever before been sung on the Peninsula by a local cast.

Those singing the leading roles were Martha Graham, lyric soprano; Elinor Jorgensen, mezzo soprano; Eileen Kidwell, lyric soprano; James Gordon, tenor; Wallace Doolittle, baritone, and Domenic DiMare, baritone-bass. All displayed a keen sense of humor, quite welcome, as the 18th century plot was extremely amusing. The response to the invitation of the Musical Art Club on the part of the community was splendid. The hall was well filled, giving the usherettes a busy hour before the opening chords. In attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marshall, and the Misses Judy Sargant, Jeanie Paplow and Renee Wurzmann assisting the club committee.

Homer Levinson

Homer Robert Levinson, 33, died last Friday in a San Jose Hospital following a long period of failing health.

Born September 19, 1921, in San Francisco, Mr. Levinson moved to Carmel as a young boy with his parents, Mrs. Louis H. Levinson and the late Mr. Levinson. He attended Sunset School and was graduated from Monterey Union High School.

His college career, which commenced at the University of California, was terminated by a tragic accident in the summer of 1940 when he broke a vertebra in his neck while riding the breakers at Carmel beach. Though completely paralyzed for two years following the accident, he managed to regain partial use of his hands and arms, and subsequently continued his college work under a tutor. He also produced a number of short stories, one of which was published in a national magazine. In recent years his failing health had precluded virtually all his activities.

In addition to his mother, Mrs. Louis Levinson of Carmel, he leaves two brothers, Howard B. Levinson and Louis H. Levinson, an uncle, Homer F. Levinson, and a niece and nephew, Robin and David Levinson, all of Carmel.

Private services were held Saturday in San Jose.

Truman. Samuel French, incorporated, who control the non-professional rights, have notified Golden Bough Playhouse that its production will be the last permitted in the West until after the road company has passed through.

Opening tonight, Autumn Crocus will play tomorrow and Sunday, this being the first of a series of four consecutive weekends.

Autumn Crocus Opens Tonight At Players Circle

Autumn Crocus, favorite romantic comedy by C. L. Anthony (Dody Smith) will open tonight with an in-the-round production at Golden Bough Players Circle. Director Don Gunderson has assembled an experienced and attractive cast, including Flavia Flavin, Katie Ruster, Wolf Griessbach, Karen Williams, Marjorie Wurzmann, Bill Quitt, Gertrude Chappell, Wayne Schlepp, Allen Praefke and Renee Wurzmann.

The play, which has not heretofore been produced on this Peninsula, had a long run in New York, followed by an even longer road tour. At that time it served to introduce to American playgoers a young star of the Berlin and Prague stage, Francis Lederer, who has achieved new fame in this country. Interest in this charming play has recently been re-awakenetd by its having been the hit of the Eastern seaboard summer theaters this year. Margaret Truman enacted the role of Miss Fanny, which will be played here by Flavia Flavin. Several members of the Army Language School will lend the proper "atmosphere" to the current production, the locale of the play being high up in the Austrian Tyrol. The scene is the dining room of an inn, at a favorite resort for British tourists.

Plans are under way for putting out Autumn Crocus in a nation-wide road tour, starring Margaret

"Underwater ear" spots telephone cables fast. Using a special underwater sound detector, telephone trouble shooters can quickly find cables lying on the bottom of the bays and rivers of the Pacific West—even cables buried deep in silt. This means cables can be raised, when necessary, in much less time than if we had to grapple for them "blindly" or a diver had to wander about looking for them. And, of course, time saved is also money saved. Thus, the "ear" is helping us bring you good service at low cost. Pacific Telephone works to make your telephone a bigger value every day.

The Water Color Show

BY DORA HAGEMEYER

In the Beardsley Gallery of the Carmel Art Association this month will be found an exceptionally fine group of water colors and pastels. Several of these are quite outstanding. Return of the Regatta by Fred Klepich is one of the most beautiful airy water colors one could find, fresh with the sea breeze and the little yachts moving across the surface like wings. It is hard to say what gives this picture such a luminous quality. It is not the technique nor the subject, nor the colors, but something beyond and above all these, just as the beauty of a seagull's soaring is beyond all attributes of the event. Beside this picture stands a masterly drawing on antique paper by Armin Hansen. Only a distinguished artist could draw like that, with such strength and freedom. Another of the fine things in this present exhibit is Wet Evening, Venice, by Donald Teague. In this picture the sheen of the wet pavement reflects the light sifting in from a low sun after a day of rain. The sombre facades of the buildings and the deep shadows give an atmosphere in accordance with the figures hurrying homeward. The boats lie in grave and quiet patience beside the pier, and the fine clear upright lines, drawn with a controlled hand, give delicacy and height. Such a picture is a true achievement.

Another picture which should be especially mentioned is Wharf at Morning by Schepens-Kraus. The use of shadowy blue in the buildings, and the feeling of depth and quietness in the long vertical lines of the pier, give verity and uniqueness to this representation of a familiar scene. We may see it over and over again, but only the artist has perceived this special aspect.

Point Lobos by William Watts is a most impressive and richly colored piece of cliff structure, with the great cypress clutching for root hold and the rock substance glowing sun burnt and warm in the western light. Paris Sketch by Jay Hannah, Jr., is a strong line drawing in black, white and grey. The looming impression of the ancient time-proved architecture is evidence of strength and ability of creative power. This artist, with his fine oil in the main gallery and his remarkable drawings from life, again proves his unusual ability. Waiting Craft by Sam Hassis is a capable and uncluttered brush drawing of a blue boat drawn up within a swirl of tide. Nature Morte by Virginia Conroy is a most original gouache drawing exploiting every tone and nuance of grey within a small color range, the vigor and stride of the root structure evidence of study and regard for nature. E. Cashion MacLennan's In For Repairs is a vigorous piece of work in sepia tones relieved by well-placed color, the fine silver-leaf frame lending response and completion to the whole.

Lover's Point by John La Pierre uses the broken rock face of cliff to accent the motion of light and shadow. It is direct and simple and not over-played. Purse Seiners by Eleanor Taylor James is a rough-textured gouache on black paper, very effective and colorful. The nets and masts and men are grouped in the foreground against a contrast of sea, hills and sky. Mexican Mnemonics by Rosemunde Colme is a striking study of architecture piled up under a thundercloud which repeats the towering dome. A group of simple white dwellings cluster at the base.

Zinnias by Laura Maxwell is one of her well-known flower paintings, the flowers grouped richly in a Delft jug, very convincing and hearty. Carmel Beach by Royden Martin uses the great sweeping tree trunks of cypress against silver sand and a glimpse of the bay. Pencil Study by Leslie Emery is a fine drawing of a sad appealing little face, as always meticulously achieved in detail. Strange Characters by Joe Ataide reminds one of the signatures stamped on old Chinese paintings. This artist is always refreshing and surprising in his approach to a subject. Begonia by Anita Wainwright is a most successful pastel drawing on dark paper. The white flowers seem to shine with their own light. Still Morning by Helen Dooley is a free moist watercolor, with good light and reflections well-placed and simply attained.

Autumn in the Valley by Rip Matteson, a very clear and simple statement, uses an old fashioned house with its green blinds to stand against the autumn colors of the field. Taxco, Mexico, by Maxine Albro is illustrative and picturesque, the little houses piling up the green hill towards the mission at the top. Crystal Spring Lake by Homer Levinson is a delicate wash-drawing with colors almost like the patina on old silver, so light and unshadowed is the whole landscape. Rainbow's End by Lillian Paca, one of this artist's expert bird drawings, shows gulls swept up in swirling graceful flight from the flinging wave. Hills and Beach by Kay Rogers uses a very effective rough surface for the folding hills above the blue bay, drawn with a true sense of land structure. Drawing of Anna by Harvey Williamson is a spontaneous pencil sketch with good strong lines and firm structure. Spring Fantasy by Marjory Pegram is a story-like and somewhat illustrative little painting of a picturesque doorway with blooming trees and figures, and Portrait Sketch by Charlotte Betts is a character drawing showing thoughtful concentration and attention to mood.

The new screens in this gallery are most effective, dividing off the areas and allowing more wall space. The whole gallery with its gracious and attentive curator is a center of interest and enjoyment not only for our own people but for the visitor who wishes to see what is representative of our village.

This column is dedicated to the memory of one of our bravest Carmel boys, injured in the breakers fourteen years ago. The following fine poem is his own.

—D. H.

LUCIA MAPLES

The mountain's robe flows downward
In a blue whisper,
Folding into its deepness
The trees of pasteled gold
That splash the canyon with their light.

These Santa Lucias
Spread no burning cloak
Across the wideness of green ranges.
But softly in these hills
The golden trees
Sing out the spirit of the Autumn—
Distilling in their being
The essence of its fire,
Of its loneliness.

The sun strikes, the day slips through,
The trees flame briefly
And are taken by the dark—
Leaving shadow,
Peace,
And the memory of perfectness.

Pal Joey at the Wharf

BY KIPPY STUART

Seldom does an audience rise en masse to acclaim the opening of a new play, but last Friday night at the Wharf Theater's Pal Joey, the roof was practically raised in approval. From the first curtain the play moved with quick acceleration from one snappy scene right on to the next, carrying everyone along on a high note.

Dale Lefler, a truly fine actor and dancer, was a natural for the role of Joey. As the night club tout, Dale's magnetic personality and subtle charm won for him a high spot in the evenin's entertainment. Dale's ability as choreographer was proven by the masterful manner in which he directed his chorus of "beautiful dames."

The honors of the evening go to Dee Olivetti. In the role of the hard-boiled "lady of easy virtue" Dee gave a brilliant performance. He costumes were outstanding and with her air of sophisticated audacity, Dee brought forth shock after shock, much to the delight of all present. Betty Fowlston, as usual, had everyone in stitches with her fillip of nonsense, Betty possess a singular ability at innuendo which allows her to get as big a laugh out of an un-funny line as from a humorous line.

Ben Small has the qualities of a chameleon, the way he can dash from comedy to drama. In his "Apach" dance with Carmen Merchant, the two brought the house down. Joy Wilkinson gave the surprise of the evening. Joy, cast as the hard-boiled newspaper woman, suddenly came to life with her rendition of the salacious song "Zip". The roars from the auditorium almost drowned out her words, yet each subtle meaning registered. Joy, with her disciplined gestures and her good looks, gave a bang-up dead-pan act.

The song, Flower Garden of My Heart, rendered well by Richard Reed Marshall, was an outstanding number. As each chorine appeared, representing some flower, the absurdity of the symbolism and extravagant costuming left the audience breathless with laughter. The chorus of Pal Joey was a delight to see. The costumes were crisp and effective and the changes so quick and sudden that all were aware 290.50 at the point where the South line of Fifth Avenue intersects the West line of Torres Street.

At all points between the points at which elevations are fixed on the same side of Fifth Avenue, the grade is established so as to conform to a straight line drawn between said points.

The numbers used in this division, when their meaning is not shown to be otherwise by their immediate context, mean the number of feet which, at the point designated, the top of the curb shall be above the City base and datum plane.

Sidewalks on the North and South sides of Fifth Avenue from the East line of Monte Verde Street to the West line of Dolores Street and from the East line of San Carlos Street to the West line of Torres Street shall be eight (8) feet wide measured from the property line to the outer edge of the curb."

Section 2. That all Ordinances and parts of Ordinances in conflict with this Ordinance be, and they are hereby, repealed.

Section 3. That the City Clerk of said City is hereby instructed to cause this Ordinance to be published once in the CARMEL PINE CONE, the official newspaper of said City, within fifteen (15) days after its final passage and approval.

CERTIFICATION OF THE CITY CLERK

I, the undersigned, City Clerk of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of Ordinance No. 179 N. S., which was given its first reading at a Regular Meeting of the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea held on the 8th day of September, 1954, and finally adopted at a Regular Meeting of the said Council on the 6th day of October, 1954.

I further certify that upon its passage the foregoing Ordinance was signed by the Mayor of said City and attested by the City Clerk thereof.

DATED this 6th day of October, 1954.

PETER MAWDSLEY,
City Clerk.

of the skilful back-stage technique of Robert Carson.

Nick Le Feuvre and Walter Scott are to be commended on the tricky and excellent lighting effects and drop curtain precision. Each member of the cast deserves commendation, for there were no fluffed lines, no hiatus in movement or speech. Pal Joey practically flowed, so smooth and skilful was the directing. Thomas Brock, long experienced as director, in Pal Joey reached some sort of zenith.

The decor and surroundings of the new Wharf Theater are something to see. The reception, held after First Night of Pal Joey, was so skilfully handled by Hostess Jane Parker that each person felt personally welcome. To my way of thinking, the Wharf Theater can no longer be classed as merely an amateur theater. The performance given last Friday night, brings the prestige of professional to the director and actors of the Wharf Theater.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

So many people have asked my opinion on the landscaping project for Ocean Avenue that per se, I have been compelled to think, and here is my two-bits worth. I believe that California's native flora should grace our main street. There are literally hundreds of varieties of native shrubs that are not only outstanding, but beautiful to boot. There are two prime native shrubs that are famous throughout the world: ceanothus and manzanita. These plants accommodate by coming in all sizes and all shapes, and it seems to me that nobody could go wrong taking a tip from California's own growth.

Manzanita belongs to the Heath family and is also called Bearberry. The horticultural name of manzanita is a jaw breaker; arctostaphylos. (That's what the book says). This shrub can be had in varying heights and spread, from the tiny ground cover to the tall majestic bushes. The most important thing about manzanita is that it craves an acid soil and where will you find more acid than on Ocean Avenue amid the pine trees? Manzanita's bright green leaves are small and leathery, not bothered by wind or fog. In the fall the plant takes on a deep bronze tone, lovely to look at. In the Spring the plants are covered with pink and white flowers, that turn to red berries at maturity. Manzanita lends itself well to transplanting, and though a slow grower, will stick around for a long time.

My second choice is our glorious ceanothus, California's own wild lilac. This plant too, comes in all shapes and colors; deep blue flowers, on to palest white. Ceanothus, like manzanita, can be obtained in all shapes and sizes. There are purported to be over fifty varieties of ceanothus, from the tiniest ground covere to the lordly mountain trees. Ceanothus is native to California, belonging the Buckthorn family; they are handsome, free-flowering shrubs, with panicles of blue and white flowers. And most important, ceanothus is hardy as all out doors.

All this talking of planting Ocean Avenue is just fine, but you know my favorite adage; "Don't plant a five dollar plant in a five cent hole". Before any attempt to plant the parking strip on Ocean Ave., much work should be done. Pine tree roots are spread all over the place; the soil on that strip is dead as dead can be, and unless proper preparations are made for new flora, the whole thing will go up in smoke. Monies spent just to stick plants in, are monies lost.

We are fortunate in having wise personnel in charge of this civic project, men and women well versed in garden lore, and I bet-my-life that in the end, this group of experts will come up with a planting schedule that will satisfy us all.

Desert Roadrunners

Flying down to Palm Springs for the weekend are John P. Kunstle of Carmel and I. W. Stephenson of Pebble Beach, who'll trade their wings for wheels on arrival at the desert spa where both will drive in the fourth annual Palm Springs Road Races.

The Kunstle and Stephenson racing machines will be trailered south by Dick Madeira of Carmel, who'll have the two cars all ready to go in Saturday's preliminary events. J.P. will drive his speedy Porsche coupe, while Steve will pilot his new British HRG—the first appearance of this marque in competition on the West Coast.

Various other local racing enthusiasts will also drive down for the race weekend to watch the fun and possibly help out in the Kunstle-Stephenson pit crews. But at least one regular pit crewman from Carmel, Paul Morlang, won't be going: he and his wife, Hilda, are expecting their first child any day.

Entertaining For Auden

Visiting Poet W. H. Auden, whose reading Sunday afternoon at the Hill Theatre drew a near-capacity crowd, was the house-guest of Noel Sullivan at the latter's Hollow Hills Farm over his weekend stay on the Peninsula.

A cocktail party and supper in Mr. Auden's honor was given by his host Saturday afternoon. Following the party, Mr. Auden joined several other of the guests at the perforance of Cosi Fan Tutte at Sunset Auditorium.

Preceding his program Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Read entertained Mr. Auden with a buffet luncheon at their home near the Highlands. Among the guests was Ruth Witt-Diamante, leading light of the poetry Center at San Francisco State College, who has been instrumental in bringing Auden and other poets to the West Coast.

McKinstrys In Mother Lode

Off for a two weeks' vacation in the Mother Lode country are Mr. and Mrs. Paul McKinstry, who are making the old town of Columbia their base of operations. In the course of their leisurely travels and explorations around the autumn landscape, the McKinstrys planned to work their way up towards Chico, where they will enjoy a short visit with their son, Ted, and his daughter. They'll be back next weekend.

Firstborn For Bennetts

Blonde, blue-eyed, and a fine, healthy baby boy is Mark Alexander Bennett, the new son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Bennett of Carmel Highlands.

The newcomer—he's the first child for the Bennetts—arrived October 4 at Peninsula Hospital, and weighed exactly eight pounds. He's the grandson of Mrs. Mildred Alexander and of Gross Alexander, both of Redlands, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Bennett of Palo Alto.

Mrs. Douglas On Orient Tour

Mrs. Grace Parsons Douglas left the Peninsula yesterday for San Francisco, where on Sunday she will board the President Polk for the first leg of a halfway-around-the-world cruise.

Mrs. Douglas' first stop will be Honolulu, where she will visit several friends and Peninsula expatriates. Her voyage will proceed to Yokohama, then to Manila, and will finally terminate in New York City. Mrs. Douglas plans to visit friends in Washington and Chicago before returning to her home in Pebble Beach around the latter part of January.

First Son For The Fernandez'

"Compact" is the way Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fernandez proudly describe their brand-new son, who, though he weighed just a whisker over six pounds on arrival October 7 at Peninsula Hospital, is vigorously displaying a full-grown appetite and a penchant for night life.

He's the first child for the Fernandez', who have been established in their new home at Santa Fe and First Streets for just a month, having moved here from Salinas. With them is Mr. Fernandez' mother, Mrs. Margo Fernandez of New York, who plans to visit here through the winter.

Other visitors at the Fernandez home last week included the baby's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vila of El Cerrito. Paternal grandfather is Dibio Fernandez of Long Island.

The newcomer's name is Jeffrey James, and he'll be, so christened at Carmel Mission soon.

Birthday For Frank

Frank Creede, Jr., was the object of a family birthday party over the weekend, held at the home of Frank's mother, Mrs. Frank Creede, on Carmel Point.

Helping Frank celebrate, in addition to his mother, were his wife, Mary, and small daughter Laurel, who all enjoyed a share of the traditional candle-lit birthday cake (this one a Blum's confection flown down from San Francisco especially for the occasion).

Frank, a young San Francisco attorney, spent much of his life on the Peninsula, attending school here before entering Stanford, where he received his law degree.

Birthday Celebration At Forces

The just-off-the-fairway home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Force in Pebble Beach was the scene of a gala birthday celebration planned by Mrs. Force in honor of her husband Tuesday evening.

Also honored at the cocktail and buffet supper event were three out-of-town visitors who arrived Tuesday especially to be on hand for the celebration: Mrs. W. E. Dando and Miss Eva Marian Petersen of Seattle, and Mrs. J. J. Jamison of Pleasanton.

Handsome floral arrangements of gold and green "Raggedy-Ann" crysanthemums highlighted the living room party decor. In the dining room, the color key for the buffet table was pink—even down to the pink-frosted birthday cake inscribed with Mr. Force's name.

The party guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Abernethy, Dr. and Mrs. George Davidson and their houseguest from Pasadena, Mrs. Edith Toaz, Mrs. L. D. Churchill, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Harris, Mrs. Edith Hamilton, Mrs. Lee Harbick, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Alward, Colonel W. F. Freehoff, Dr. Dudley Sanford, Dr. Ernest Stratton, Tom Bunn and Frederick Elstob.

C. F. Rider-Harriet Adams Wed

A pair of Carmelites, Mr. and Mrs. C. Fremont Rider, are observing their second wedding anniversary today — second week, that is. Mr. Rider and his bride, the former Harriet Adams, exchanged vows October 1 in Las Vegas.

Standing with them for the wedding ceremony were Mr. Rider's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cox of Los Angeles, who joined the bride and benedict for a wedding supper afterwards.

The Riders returned from Nevada last week, and are now living in Pebble Beach. However, they may be transferring their residence shortly to Santa Barbara, where Mr. Rider plans to build a new apartment-hotel. The new Mrs. Rider, who came here several years ago from Montana, is the proprietor of The Hour Glass Shop in Carmel.

Detroits To Northwest

Mr. and Mrs. Lance Detroit have managed to tear themselves away from their handsome new home for long enough to embark on a fortnight's vacation in the northwest. They left last weekend, and planned to drive up the Redwood Highway to Oregon, then on up to Washington where they will visit Mr. Detroit's sister. They'll head homewards again after a detour via Vancouver and Victoria in British Columbia.

Visiting In New York

In the east for a brief holiday is Mrs. Malcolm Millard, who left early this week to fly to New York and a surprise visit with Mr. Millard's mother and his sister. Among other friends and relatives she planned to see while in the east was Mrs. H. T. Webster (widow of the late, great cartoonist), who frequently vacations here at Peter Pan Lodge.

Mrs. Millard planned to be in Chicago this weekend, and Malcolm hopes to be able to fly out and join her there. If all goes according to plan, they'll return home to the Highlands together around the first of the week.

Woman's Club Rummage Sale

October 21 has been set aside for the Carmel Woman's Club's annual all day rummage sale. Values of all kinds will abound and the committee, headed by Mrs. L. C. Miller, is prepared to welcome bargain hunters from all over the Monterey Peninsula.

Mrs. Miller is assisted by co-chairmen Mrs. James Burgess and Mrs. C. V. Fonteneau, and the following section chairmen:

White elephants, Mrs. E. T. Patee; kitchen ware, Mrs. C. V. Fonteneau; furniture and rugs, Mrs. S. B. Moore; linens and bedding, Mrs. George Hallenbeck; books and games, Miss Bessie L. French; hats and shoes, Mrs. F. H. Knudsen; lamps, pictures, and mirrors, Mrs. Fanchon Z. Freeman; purses, belts and gloves, Miss Margaret McIntire; dresses, coats and suits, Mrs. E. H. Ewig; new table, Mrs. Kathryn Landsdowne; men's wear, Mrs. Charlotte Wight; sweaters and blouses, Miss Amy Comings; jewelry, Mrs. Florence Warren; lingerie, Miss Eva Dunbar; grocery basket, Mrs. Ross G. Rede; house chairman, Mrs. G. P. Lamont; publicity, Mrs. Carl E. Menneken; cashier, Mrs. H. C. Schroeder; telephone, Mrs. F. B. Seville.

Rummage will be accepted up to the morning of the sale. For pick-up call Mrs. Miller at 7-4844 or Mrs. Burgess, 7-7736. Merchandise may also be left on the side porch of the club house inside of the fence.

School French Club Meeting

The Carmel High School French Club welcomed the members of the first year French Class to membership in the club at a party held in the high school library Tuesday evening. Mr. Donald Teague, who has made many trips to Europe, showed his beautiful colored slides of his 1954 trip to Paris, Italy, Austria and Switzerland. The color and composition of these slides make them unique. His family accompanied him on the trip.

The president of the club, Bonnie Lynn Redhead, and the Secretary, Mead McDonough, conducted the opening meeting in French. Frank Palms is treasurer. Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Barbara Mitchell, assited by Joan Hamilton, Cynthia Cox, Linda Teague, Jeanne Fratessa, and others. The cakes and cookies were made by members of the club. Mrs. Matthew Beaton is the club sponsor.

Silver Tea At Mrs. Currie's

The home of Mrs. Arthur Bissell Currie on Carmel Point will be the scene of a silver tea Sunday afternoon from 3:00 to 6:00 o'clock. The event is sponsored by the women of the choir of St. Mary's by-the-Sea Episcopal Church as a benefit for the choir fund.

Guests will have the opportunity to see the collection of rare Oriental objets d'art brought back by Mrs. Currie from her extensive travels abroad, and also to see the lovely gardens surrounding the home.

Assisting Mrs. Currie in the service will be Mrs. John Powell, Mrs. Ralph E. Moffatt, Mrs. A. R. Field, Mrs. J. R. High, Mrs. William Griffiths, Mrs. Arch Balchan, Mrs. Alma Borchers, Mrs. Edwin C. Hopkins, Mrs. Wallace Lowery, Mrs. T. J. Banvard, Mrs. Merrill Campbell, Mrs. W. M. O'Donnell and the Misses Patricia Peast, Donna Sibbald, Mary Yates and Irma Krafft.

A Great Big Beautiful Doll

A nine pound, nine ounce baby girl is the reigning princess in the household of Mr. and Mrs. Melvern Pankratz, who were not in the least dismayed when predicted twins turned out to be one large economy size baby.

Janice Lisa is the name Mr. and Mrs. Pankratz have given their firstborn, and according to them, she's a tall (22½ inch) brunette beauty and looks cuter than a kewpie doll. Her birthdate was October 8, with Peninsula Community Hospital the place of arrival.

Janice's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Otto Pankratz of Pasadena, who will be up here to visit shortly, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert States, who live in Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania. Mr. and Mrs. Pankratz, who make their home at Santa Fe and Second, have been in Carmel for about two years; Mr. Pankratz is the driving instructor at Monterey High School.

U.S.O. Concert

A piano recital at the U.S.O. on Thursday evening will introduce Gilbert Boyer to local music lovers. Mr. Boyer is a graduate of the New England Conservatory, a Mus. Bac. from North Texas Teachers' College, and did post-graduate work with the Brazilian Pianist Novaes and Paul Dogereau, the Ravel specialist now in Boston. Among his many public appearances one was before the Provincetown Art Association, three important events in Boston, and a recital in Brazil while sojourning in South America. With Mrs. Boyer he has recently chosen Carmel as their home where they are conducting music and art studies.

Mrs. Boyer is a successful artist in oils, and Boyer, a member of Pi Kappa Lambda, the National Music Fraternity. For his program he has chosen among other numbers the B Minor Sonata of Chopin, Griffes' White Peacock, The Three Maries of Villa-Lobos, and Ondine by Ravel. Shostakovitch, Mendelssohn and de Falla are also represented in the program which will begin at 8:15 o'clock. These programs at the U.S.O., under the direction of Harold Brewer and Mrs. Carl Nuetzel, are open to the public and have become increasingly popular with music lovers.

Lions See Art In Action

Five local artists and an attractive model gave Carmel Lions something to look at during their meeting Tuesday night, for which program chairman August Nieto had arranged an art-in-action demonstration.

The artists were Mary Miller, John La Pierre, Frank Myers and Sam Harris. With Ann Barden as a model, each of the four demonstrated the sketching, composition and completion of a portrait in each of four media: oil, charcoal, crayon and pencil. Also on hand was Fred Klepich, who explained what his colleagues were doing and spoke briefly on the history and operation of the Carmel Art Association.

During the business half of the meeting, it was announced that the meeting of November 2 will be a Ladies' Night, with dinner and dancing to Ernie Osborne's orchestra. The Lions will have their traditional Hallow'en party on October 26, with each member to bring as guest his own (or somebody else's) small fry. Howard Levinson will be in charge of the festivities.

Enter Charles The Third

A proud family name went into a third generation last week with the arrival of Charles Elliott Stevens, III, the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens, Jr., of Pescadero and First streets.

Charles the Third arrived last Saturday at Peninsula Community Hospital, displacing seven pounds, 14 ounces, and immediately became the center of attention for a full family gathering. Present to greet him were both his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elliott, Sr., of San Rafael, and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hoffman of Santa Clara. The Hoffmans will be down again this weekend, just as soon as Mr. Hoffman can get off his teaching duties at San Jose State.

U.N. Day Luncheon Tuesday

Mrs. W. W. Douglas of Berkeley, a specialist in world affairs, will be the speaker at a United Nations Day luncheon Tuesday afternoon, sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters. The event will take place at 12:30 o'clock at Spindrift Restaurant. Members of other organizations interested in world affairs have been invited to attend, and to support the League in its resolution "to continue to support the principles of international cooperation and reaffirm its belief in the United Nations as an instrument of peace."

DR. ROGERS TO PREACH SECOND IN SERMON SERIES

The second in a series of seven Sunday morning sermons, based on Seven Visits to the Great Physician, Our Lord Jesus Christ, will be given this Sunday by Dr. Harry Clayton Rogers, pastor of the Carmel Presbyterian Church. This week's sermon is entitled Christ's Cure for Loneliness and Separation.

The series of sermons relates to the church's motto, "Whatever your problem, we promise to help" —based on the New Testament text, "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ." The women's guild and the men's club are including in their programs service to the aged, the infirm or to anyone in personal need.

from the high school next spring, and then hopes to enter college in the east.

On Saturday evening, Mr. Kim was host to several of his and Jimmy's acquaintances at a dinner party at La Playa Hotel, where he made his weekend headquarters. Present for the occasion, in addition to Mr. Kim and his son, were Mrs. Reginald Inwood and Miss Jeanne Inwood, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schuman, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hasselo, Captain and Mrs. Howard W. Brown, and Mr. Kim's secretary, Y. Hong.

On Sunday, Mr. Kim and Jimmy were entertained informally at the home of Captain and Mrs. Brown in Monterey. Captain Brown had met Mr. Kim while stationed in Korea. Later Sunday afternoon, the two Kims were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Inwood at their Highlands home. Other informal gatherings punctuated the remainder of Mr. Kim's visit here, which terminated early this week when he left for San Francisco.

Mr. Kim boarded a transoceanic flight out of San Francisco on Tuesday, and planned to stop briefly at Honolulu and Hongkong before returning to his home in Seoul.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How spiritual understanding of man's scientific unity with God overcomes fear and establishes harmony will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Doctrine of Atonement" includes the following passages from the Bible (Psalms 51:15-17):

"O Lord, open thou my lips; and my mouth shall shew forth the praise. For thou desirest not sacrifice; else would I give it; thou delightest not in burnt offering. The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following selections will also be read (202:3): "The scientific unity which exists between God and man must be wrought out in life-practice, and God's will must be universally done."

The Golden Text is from I John (2:1): "If any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous."

ed cartoonists Eldon Dedini, Bill O'Malley and Hank Ketcham and painter Donald Teague to drop by the house Sunday afternoon and contribute their opinions on the entries. He offered to postpone the occasion, but Secretary McKay protested: he'd "get a big kick" out of meeting the artists and kibitzing the contest, he said.

So the Mays and McKay spent the afternoon in the company of Mssrs. Dedini, O'Malley, Ketcham and Teague and their wives perusing cartoons and later, enjoying tea on the lawn. McKay accepted an invitation to act as "honorary judge"; "I've judged just about everything else," he cheerfully said, "but never cartoons!" He even affixed his signature to the three prizewinning entries; the cartoons were turned over to public relations officers from Fort Ord, and will eventually be returned to their owners on Okinawa, where at least three G.I.'s will be mighty surprised to find a cabinet member's signature adorning their entries.

The Mays saw their guest off on Monday morning. He was due to fly directly to Long Beach, where he gave a speech Monday night, then to proceed on to the Summer White House at Denver around the middle of the week to confer with President Eisenhower. At Denver he'll also be rejoined by Mrs. McKay, who has been visiting with their daughters in Salem, Oregon, and she will continue with him on the rest of his tour.

Faculty Plays Twenty Questions With Parents

be for parents themselves to educate their children in what is good taste in dress for school.

Does the school have a smoking problem, and if so, how is it handled and what about students who smoke off-campus? In class meetings, and in a special bulletin issued at the first of the semester, students were made aware of the state law regarding smoking, Edwards said, and were also reminded that anyone smoking or in possession of cigarettes on campus is subject to immediate suspension. The same rule applies to students on school-sponsored trips or rallies or sports events. Apart from this, however, the school has no authority to prevent students from smoking off-campus; this is a problem for parents.

Does the school have any sororities? Not to the knowledge of the faculty, stated Edwards. State law specifically outlaws high school sororities or secret societies of any kind. Clubs and organizations at the high school are open to everyone, with qualifications for membership being standards of scholarship, service or the like.

Other questions tackled by Edwards: Why doesn't the school have a doctor in attendance at the lightweight and JV football games, as well as at the varsity? (Too expensive; $25 per game. Anyway, qualified first aid people are always on hand, and the hospital is only three blocks away). Why are extracurricular activities scheduled on school nights? (Unavoidable: nobody shows us over weekends. Students should budget their time so as to prevent extracurricular activities interfering with school work). Is the school's insurance all-inclusive for students on busses, in classrooms and on the playing field? (Yes.)

The parents also heard a series of short talks from various faculty members on the following topics: Mrs. Mariquita Brey, manners and common courtesy; Don Craig, how parents can help students with study habits; Mrs. Phyllis Crockett, sportsmanship and fair play; Howard Byrne, useful arts and crafts; Superintendent Stuart Mitchell, characteristics of the ninth grade age group.

A similar meeting for parents of 10th, 11th and 12th grade students will be held next Thursday evening.

Weston Is Casting "Escape" For Forest Theater Guild Play

John Galsworthy's play Escape, one of the great plays of the English theater, will be presented by the Forest Theater Guild on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, November 5, 6 and 7, and again on November 12, 13 and 14. Leslie Howard, as Captain Matt Denant, became famous playing the part.

This will be the first full length play to be staged by the Forest Theater Guild in the Workshop, an intimate little theater under the stage of the Forest Theater. The staging will follow the lines of simplicity. The fast action of the play and the intense drama are enough in themselves to hold the audience.

The part of Captain Matt Denant, the hero of the play, is a challenge to any actor. Matt is on the stage in every one of the play's ten fascinating episodes. The Forest Theater Guild has Allan Foulkes, president of the Monterey Toastmasters Club, to play the part of Matt Denant.

Cole Weston directs the play. He has a searching eye out for three men who can play the roles of an English policeman, a detective and a farmer. All three parts are small, but they are good parts, and they will not demand much time. Anyone who likes to act and enjoys being a part of a friendly and enthusiastic cast of more than a dozen players, can get in on the fun by telephoning to the president of the Forest Theater Guild, Victor S. Velissaratos, 7-7038, or by attending this Sunday evening's rehearsal which is scheduled at 7:00 o'clock in the Guild's Workshop. Cole Weston will be glad to give an audition.

Grade School Notes

Miss Dennestoun's Third Grade

Thursday, October 7, 1954, our class saw a fire engine. I though that the men were going to put the fire engine on fire. The teacher said that they weren't going to. I was so happy. —Carolyn Styron.

The boxers are Rocky Marciano and Ezzard Charles. Charles received a right uppercut by Marciano. Marciano got a split eyebrow. There goes the bell. Marciano got an uppercut. Marciano made Charles swagger by a left hook. There goes the bell. In the last round Marciano was the winner. —Barton Whelson.

The sea is salty,
The rivers are clean,
The moon shines brightly,
And the sun gives beams.
—Stanley Smith.

Alum Rock Park is the place to go swimming. There is a slide 25 to 30 feet long. —Bob Brown.

Once there was a gnat,
And he had a big, fat, hat.
And the big, fat hat
Was very, very, natty.
—Bruce Ricker.

I have a little pony,
That sits on the track,
He can't move an inch,
Because he's so fat.
I have a little pony,
That sits on the track,
He is a pretty little boy,
Because he's so black.
He's got a little white spot,
That's right on his back,
It looks so very pretty,
Because it's the only one on his back.
—Evelyn S. Howell.

My mother and father were to go to a wedding in August. They went up before the wedding to meet the bride and groom. Their names were Rodger and Judy. They live up in San Francisco, California. —Dana Tracy.

A.A.U.W. GENERAL MEETING

Frank Elton, chairman of the local World Affairs Council, will speak on South Africa and Its Problems at a general meeting tomorrow of the Monterey Peninsula A.A.U.W. The luncheon is at 1:00 o'clock at M.P.C.C.

To Patrons of The Del Monte Properties Company

The Company finds it advisable to increase charges at the gates to the Forest by 25 cents an automobile, from 50 cents to 75 cents.

This increase need not affect those who live on the Monterey Peninsula as monthly permits are still available at the old rate of $2.50, and annual permits at $25.00 a year, the same as is paid by property owners in the Del Monte Forest.

These permits may be secured at the Engineering office of the Del Monte Properties Company at Pebble Beach.

The increase will become effective November 1st. —Adv.
